Prayer for Religious

God our Father

may consecrated men and women be a beacon in the darkness,

capable of seeing values where others see none

and of recognising beauty where others fail to do so.
May they be missionaries who firstly 'are' and then 'do'

and who hope against all hope.

May they enjoy silence in the midst of noise

and dare to speak when cowardice would demand silence,

always seeking new paths for prophetic proclamation.

May they experience daily the joy and the adventure that flows from giving one's life for the sake of Jesus and His Gospel.

May the 'yes' of Mary, Star of the Sea, continue to inspire and guide us on the pilgrimage of life. Amen.

Sr M. Louise O' Rourke, pddm

Reflection for World Day of Prayer for the Sick, 11 February

'The Church's maternal vocation to the needy and to the sick has found concrete expression throughout the two thousand years of her history in an impressive series of initiatives on behalf of the sick. This history of dedication must not be forgotten. It continues to the present day throughout the world. In countries where adequate public health care systems exist, the work of Catholic religious congregations and dioceses and their hospitals is aimed not only at providing quality medical care, but also at putting the human person at the centre of the healing process, while carrying out scientific research with full respect for life and for Christian moral values. In countries where health care systems are inadequate or non-existent, the Church seeks to do what she can to improve health, eliminate infant mortality and combat widespread disease. The image of the Church as a 'field hospital' that welcomes all those wounded by life is a very concrete reality, for in some parts of the world, missionary and diocesan hospitals are the only institutions providing necessary care to the population.'
