Reflection for 5th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Alive

Peter got great joy out of being a fisherman/ a businessman/ with his business partners. Especially when the catch was good and the money was flowing in from Rome and the cities east and west of Galilee.

Jesus offered more - for then/ for now and for always. Life to the full was to follow, even in suffering/ humiliation and death for Peter.

Christ is alive

~ in love of our family network/

~ in our deep friendships/

~ our care for the needy and our care for the earth.

~ in our volunteers in many places they work bringing the fullness of life of Jesus.

The fish in the story represent all the people who will be found for Christ.

And he said to Peter, 'look at the fish and think of the people and know that I am alive'.

Sharing and educating in faith is bringing Christ to life. The teachers and chaplains, priests, religious, parish personnel, all educators, all parents, all families in faith are in partnership with the Lord Jesus.

All sincere faith knowledge leads to love of God and each other. Conversion is being in love with God and his creation, with each and with everyone. We want to be in a state of love. Only the one who can love can know God, for God is love. That's the challenge to all of us in passing on the faith as best we can to another generation. We pass on our faith in love.

It's not just a catechism but the conviction, belief and joy that Christ is alive. To us Christ would say there will always be fish to be caught and people to be served, the generous gift of God. To us he says I'm calling you, and that call is the generous gift of God,

Lord, help me to find you in all things, and then we can do all for your greater glory.

Donal Neary SJ

We need healing in many ways, and for those who believe that they would benefit from the grace of this Sacrament, the opportunity to do so will be given on that day.

The aim of the Seminars is to establish, deepen or restore a personal relationship with Jesus through the sharing of the Gospel in a simple but profound way.

Each seminar builds on each other commencing with God's love and finishing with Transformation in Christ. Life in the Spirit Seminars give the participants an opportunity to open themselves up to experience the "full life" that Jesus won for them, a life of love, peace and joy in the midst of normal difficulties and troubles.

You are invited to "Come and See" in this jubilee year of Hope.

All are welcome (Ages 18 and upwards)
